 MARKETING, SALES PRACTICES AND
 PRODUCT LIABILITY LITIGATION

MDL DOCKET NO. 2672 CRB (JSC)

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION’S
 NOTICE OF MOTION AND MOTION TO ENTER ITS PROPOSED PARTIAL STIPULATED ORDER FOR PERMANENT INJUNCTION AND MONETARY RELIEF

Hearing: October 18, 2016
 Time: 8:00 a.m.
 Courtroom: 6 - 17th Floor

The Federal Trade Commission (“FTC”) respectfully requests that the Court enter the Proposed Partial Stipulated Order for Permanent Injunction and Monetary Relief (DE 1607) (“the FTC Order”) along with the other components of the global 2.0L “Clean Diesel” settlement, including the proposed DOJ Consent Decree and the Class Action Settlement.¹

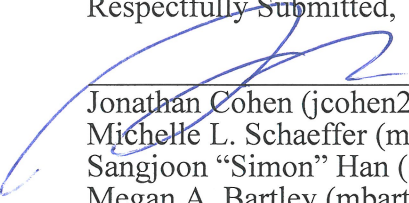

As the FTC previously explained, the robust consumer relief in the FTC Order fully compensates consumers because it provides the retail value of their vehicle before Volkswagen’s deception became public, in addition to compensation for other losses. See DE1781, FTC

¹ Volkswagen Group of America, Inc. has agreed to the proposed FTC Order as well as the proposed DOJ Consent Decree and the proposed Class Action Settlement.

1 Statement Supporting the Settlement (Aug. 26, 2016).² Given the settlement's importance, the
 2 FTC respectfully requests that the Court enter the proposed FTC Order along with the related
 3 agreements so that complete relief for consumers can begin.

 22 ² Although the FTC supports the private Class Action Settlement, the legal rationale that 23 the Plaintiffs' Steering Committee ("PSC") uses does not necessarily reflect FTC law. See 24 DE1784, Pl.'s Mem. in Support (Aug. 26, 2016). Specifically, the PSC argues that, under 25 private consumer protection law, a "refund remedy" requires that "a plaintiff return the product
 26 in comparable condition to what the plaintiff received" and that recoveries be reduced based on 27 "value provided to the Plaintiff." Id. at 21 (citations omitted). Neither proposition applies
 28 universally under the FTC Act. Rather, the equitable relief available to the FTC under the FTC Act can vary depending on the circumstances. The differences between the FTC Act and private law can be critical to the Commission's ability to compensate consumers fairly when it seeks relief.
